

CATHOLICS PLAN BIG PARADE HERE

Resolutions favoring a gigantic parade and demonstration in Washington next October, praising the work and accomplishments of the Holy Name Society and the part which Catholic men played in the world war, and denouncing a bill pending in the Senate for a national board of education, were introduced at the eighth annual convention of the Aedifican Union of the Holy Name Society, held at Gonzaga Hall yesterday afternoon.

Delegates from seventy-six churches in the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia, representing more than 25,000 members of the society, were in attendance. John Hadley Doyle was re-elected president of the organization by unanimous vote, the delegates from Baltimore seconding his nomination.

Cardinal Gibbons spoke of the important work being carried on by the Holy Name Society in furthering the ideals of the Catholic Church. "It stands closest to the church in all its work," he said. "No other association has so commended itself to the church and the people by reason of its foundation and principles."

The Rev. Edward Fitzgerald, O. P., prior of the Dominican House of Studies, spoke on "The Rights of Catholic Education."

Bishop O. B. Corrigan, of St. Mary's Industrial School, Baltimore, Md., spoke of the recent burning of the school. "A campaign to raise enough money to reconstruct the destroyed parts of the school will be started soon," he said.

The Rev. P. C. Gavan and Rev. P. R. Connelley delivered addresses. The convention was preceded by solemn high mass in St. Aloysius' Church at 11 o'clock, celebrated by the Rev. Joseph J. Pink, S. J.

HIRED MAN AS DAD FOR 25c. TO GET INTO U. S. NAVY

CHICAGO, May 5.—Determination and 25 cents got Solomon Sweetlovsky, fourteen, into the navy. After six months at the Great Lakes naval training station, officers discovered Solomon's discrepancy in age and lack of paternal consent to his enlistment.

When Solomon joined he had a "father" to sign with him. "That wasn't my dad," said Solomon, sheepishly. "When I was turned down I hired that guy for a quarter."

SEC. LANE TO URGE GIVING "SLACKER" LAND TO YANKS

An open forum on the leading economic and political questions of the day has been established by the National American Woman Suffrage Association.

A series of reconstruction conferences will open tonight, with Secretary Lane advocating giving "slacker" lands to soldiers.

Open discussion between speaker and audience will follow all addresses.

YANKS NOT FORCED TO PEDdle BUTTONS

Charges that discharged soldiers and sailors are forced to sell buttons and buttons on the streets in order to make a living in New York are absolutely without foundation, according to a statement issued by the Department of Labor today.

Men engaged in this practice are frequently civilian beggars masquerading in uniforms or else discharged soldiers who do it from choice, says the investigation and inspection service of the department.

"Not a single case was found in the entire investigation of a uniformed man selling anything on the streets because he was forced to do so for lack of employment," the report stated.

In the course of the investigation it was found that button selling is a very lucrative business; the most admitted making from $10 to $25 a day. One man who was arrested admitted having made $50 a day by selling "Welcome Home" buttons.

Twelve men arrested in naval uniforms, three admitted never having been in the service, it was stated in the report. The buttons cost the seller about $2 per 100 and were sold for from 10 to 25 cents each. Many of the men selling have been found wearing stripes for fictitious wounds and foreign decorations have been worn by men that were never in the army, the investigators found.

"Any returned soldier can within reasonable time get suitable employment at a living wage," the statement concludes, "and under no circumstances should instructions be given to the United States Employment Service give preference to returned soldiers whether American, British-Canadian, or otherwise, as against civilian applicants for any position consistent with their ability."

The Rev. P. C. Gavan and Rev. P. R. Connelley delivered addresses. The convention was preceded by solemn high mass in St. Aloysius' Church at 11 o'clock, celebrated by the Rev. Joseph J. Pink, S. J.
